

Title: 2011 Fourth of July Weekend Traffic

The Georgia State Patrol is wanting drivers to remember to buckle up this holiday weekend as you are traveling during this 78-hour holiday travel period. The Georgia State Patrol will be looking for impaired drivers, speeders, and people not wearing their seatbelts. On July Fourth 2010, The Georgia Department of Transportation reported 1,829 traffic crashes, 834 injuries, and 11 traffic deaths. Travelers are reminded to buckle up, properly restrain children, obey the posted speed limit, and select a designated driver when planning to consume alcohol.

Drunk driving is a serious matter. If you or a loved one have been injured and have questions for an experienced Douglasville Injury Attorney, please feel free to call. We will answer your questions regarding liability, your rights, and other important information. 770-577-3020.
